I really do not understand why microsoft (msft) has gotten away with what it has done and then to subvert the government via bribes and to make everything ok. I have always had a problem with the way microsoft has done business all the way back to cdrom standards in the late 1980's. They spent 4 years trying to subvert the hardware/software side of that fine media. Of course I also witnessed the compiler wars during that time with borland and the likes (borland who?).

This is simply a email to voice my complaint about the company.
